

McInnes Cooper is among the 25 largest business law firms in Canada. We serve clients across North America and abroad from six offices in Halifax, St. John's, Fredericton, Moncton, Saint John, and Charlottetown. With nearly 200 lawyers and over 230 professional resources, we are positioned to offer clients a range of legal and business services. We provide services to industry-leading clients in every major sector and with experience in all jurisdictions.

McInnes Cooper is currently seeking a talented tax lawyer to join its thriving tax group in Halifax, Nova Scotia. We welcome applications from lawyers with any level of tax experience, ranging from a thorough articling experience onwards.

The successful candidate must have a demonstrated commitment to client service, have strong analytical, interpersonal, leadership and communication skills, and must possess a strong desire to succeed. This opportunity offers exposure to a wide variety of interesting and sophisticated matters, along with work / life balance in a beautiful, vibrant city.

At McInnes Cooper, you will find a team that values you. We recognize that our members are key in delivering outstanding client service and we provide a collaborative, professional environment with a member focused culture. We are committed to creating an inclusive work environment that values, respects and supports different perspectives, cultures and experiences. We offer a highly competitive compensation package and benefits plan.
